This could be your...

last chance!

Dear Subscriber:

(I won't be able to call you that much longer ...)

Your subscription to Personal Finance has less than a month to go before it expires—and no word from you.

There are a few things you should know:

— This could be your LAST CHANCE to renew at the lowest available rate. Due to the rising cost of providing you with quality analysis, we may be forced to raise our prices soon.

— This could be your LAST CHANCE to keep your subscription coming without interruption. Even with the latest technology, it takes time to renew your order.

— This could be your LAST CHANCE to discover new places to invest here and around the world in our Investor's Series of Reports. Choose the sector and strategy that's best for you.

— This could be your LAST CHANCE to ride the money—making trends—specially found in Personal Finance, that will have a profound effect on the economy and portfolios of every size and shape.

— This could be your LAST CHANCE to capitalize on our promise to look for investments that could beat the S&P 500 by more than 800% over the next decade.

— This could be your LAST CHANCE to find the best deals in little-known and overlooked pharmaceuticals, real estate, utilities, precious metals, and more.

— This could be your LAST CHANCE to get first-hand advice from five of the country's most astute industry specialists in one place.

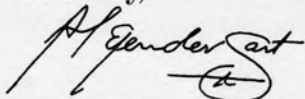

Ask yourself this: What will you gain by letting your subscription expire?

Pay less than 18 cents a day when you renew for one year. Your subscription is fully guaranteed.

A second home, college tuition, a financial cushion if tragedy strikes—just one good tip from Personal Finance could help you meet these goals easier than you can imagine!

While I can still call you subscriber, let me hear from you today.

Sincerely,

Andrea Prendergast
